

David M. Siesko

David M. Siesko is a principal with Siesko Partners, a firm focused on creating and implementing innovative solutions for the inherent conflicts that emerge between policyholders and their insurance carriers. David is a recognized industry leader, speaking regularly regarding issues that affect the national and international financial services industry.

David brings over twenty years of legal and insurance company expertise to Siesko Partners. He has contributed over 15 years of his career to the development of the customer services division at Zurich Financial Services. David first began working at Zurich in the Specialty Division as Counsel and then advanced to Director of Claims until capping his career as Executive Vice President- Chief Claims Officer for Zurich Global Corporate. David left an indelible mark at Zurich before parting with the company to start Siesko Partners.

Prior to Zurich, David worked on major claim and legal issues for the American International Group (AIG). Early in his legal career, David represented industrial clients on labor and environmental issues. In addition, David was associated with the London law firm, Lovells, during the early development of modern environmental law in the UK.

David is a member of the New Jersey and Pennsylvania state bars and a graduate of the Temple University School of Law and the Indiana University of Pennsylvania.